Dr. David M. Reeb is the Fuller Senior Research Fellow and a recognized authority on ownership structure, boards of directors, and corporate diversification. His most cited works document the prevalence of family ownership in some of the largest U.S. firms and the impact of family ownership on minority shareholders. His articles have appeared in a wide variety of top academic journals, including Journal of Finance, Journal of Financial Economics, Journal of Accounting & Economics, Accounting Review, Journal of Law & Economics, Administrative Science Quarterly, Journal of Financial & Quantitative Analysis, and Journal of International Business Studies, among others. His research has been featured in the WSJ, Business Week, The Economist, Forbes, Financial Times, Smart Money, MSNBC, and business magazines in Canada, Australia and other countries. He has also been interviewed on CNN and Bloomberg TV about his research.

Dr. Connie X. Mao is a Boettner Research Fellow. She holds a doctorate in finance from Cornell University. She had previously earned a doctorate in biomedical sciences from Cornell. Since arriving at Temple’s Fox School, Dr. Mao has been developing a reputation as an expert in understanding the effects of agency conflicts on the financing decisions of firms and how the resolution of these conflicts influences the efficiency of security markets. Her research is published in several top finance journals, including the Journal of Finance, Journal of Financial and Quantitative Analysis, Journal of Banking and Finance and Journal of International Money and Finance, among others. She has also been the recipient of grants for her research. Her current work deals with conflict-of-interest problems faced by financial intermediaries, for example, investment banks and venture capitalists.

Dr. Lalitha Naveen recently joined the Fox School faculty. She received her Ph.D. from Arizona State University. Dr. Naveen’s field of expertise is in the area of empirical corporate finance. Her research centers on corporate board structure, executive compensation, managerial incentives and risk taking. She has also researched and published in the areas of organizational complexity, CEO markets and succession planning. She has published one article in the Journal of Financial Economics and two more acceptances in the same journal that will be published shortly. She has also published in the Journal of Financial and Quantitative Analysis and the Journal of Corporate Finance. Her work has been cited by WSJ, WSJ Europe, Business Week, USA Today, Chicago Sun Times, LA Times, and the Atlanta Business Chronicle, among others.
The Fox School is home to 8 prestigious academic and professional journals:

ACADEMIC JOURNALS
- Journal of Economics and Business
- Journal of International Management
- Journal of Product Innovation Management
- Journal of Risk Finance
- Risk Management and Insurance Review

PROFESSIONAL JOURNALS
- Benefits Quarterly
- The Financier
- The Securitization Conduit

---

Ranked #4 in Research Productivity of Finance Faculty, Academic Analytics, 2007