Temple University Fox School of Business: July 2001 to present

- Teaching: Ongoing co-design of and teaching in the Fox Management Consulting Practice. Development and teaching of the Fox Board Fellows course on Nonprofit Governance. Development and teaching of a social entrepreneurship seminar. Design and teaching of executive education and workshops. Design and facilitation of the DBA research workshop series in Philadelphia & Beijing.
- Service: Design of, sales for and leadership of the Fox Management Consulting Practice, Fox Board Fellows and the Translational Research Center and the Translational Research Center. Facilitated the redesign of the Center for Executive Education (December 2018-October 2020). Facilitated the redesign of the Fox MBA to a competency-led, experiential program, including a stint as Academic Director, Global MBA (Spring 2013 through Spring 2018). Various special projects, notably the Flinders University Collaboration ($523,000).
- Research: Theory-focused research on organization design and governance, social legitimacy and political risk and social networks in innovation. Action research focused on experiential education, policy and the management of social ventures – especially the measurement of impact.

Associate Director, Community Economic Development Coordinator

University Community Collaborative of Philadelphia: July 1999 to December 2003

Responsible for managing community economic development research projects, helping to conceptualize research and policy-related follow-up projects, building a community-university research network, providing technical assistance, writing grant proposals to expand the program, and helping to build a staff and infrastructure (including evaluation) for the UCCP. Co-conceived and co-wrote successful proposals to the Pew Charitable Trusts ($400,000) and the William Penn Foundation ($330,000).

Co-Founder & Assistant Director, Innovation & Entrepreneurship Institute

Temple University Fox School of Business: July 2000 to June 2001

Co-founded the Innovation & Entrepreneurship Institute, taking responsibility for program design, marketing materials, development of the Venture Fair, and workshop development and delivery. Also provided staff support for the Dean's economic development efforts.

Co-founder & Director, Family Business Alliance

Temple University Fox School of Business: April 1997 to June 2000

Responsible for designing, launching and administering the Family Business Alliance, a support and learning community of family businesses and professionals dedicated to helping family business people understand and manage the interaction between family and business systems. Work included signing up sponsors, developing programming, developing the organization, coordinating stakeholders, marketing and person-to-person selling – as well as business consulting for family firms.

Management Consultant

Temple University Small Business Development Center: August 1996 to June 2000

Monthly Review Press: 1995 to 1997

Engagements included financial analysis, business plan critiques, strategy formation, organization development, and turnarounds for sole proprietorships and family firms.

Managing Director

- General Management: Handled personnel, strategy, business planning and systems design, such as hiring and training key staff; creating personnel policies and accountability systems; developing an organizational vision; strategic planning; budgeting; business planning; raising funds (loans and grants); inventing systems; developing strategic partnerships; managing both growth and contraction.
- Editing: Acquired and/or edited more than 30 titles, including half a dozen on “accountable economics”. Developed an active rights department.
- Marketing: Oversaw trade and direct marketing, including: Packaging (covers and copywriting); negotiating and maintaining relationships with distributors, wholesalers and retailers; creating and mailing trade catalogs; managing sales representatives; managing inventory; designing campaigns; maintaining mailing list; prospecting for lists; writing copy; designing and producing catalogs; managing fulfillment and customer service; evaluating results; and creating press releases and flyers; developing and maintaining lists of reviewers, professors and professionals; organizing targeted mailings; follow-up; arranging author tours; finding unusual outlets for titles.
- Financial Management: Redesigned chart of accounts and cash flow management. Acquired and managed loans. Negotiated sale of company.
- Production: Managed all aspects of book production from copyediting through book design; typesetting; proofing; managing printers and freelancers; and acquiring new machines and programs.

Editorial Staff

Peace News Magazine: 1983-1984

As part of travel fellowship, worked as a member of the production and editorial board of this 75-year-old pacifist magazine.

Project Coordinator

Providence Area Health Care Foundation: 1982-1983

Co-conceived and co-wrote a successful $500,000 Federal grant to provide peer support for immigrant, pregnant teens. Helped to design the training for the peer advocates, to create support materials, and to design and implement the research/ evaluation component of the project.

Varied Part-time Work: 1976-1982

Farm hand, carpenter, butcher’s assistant, water company laborer, YMCA youth worker.

EDUCATION

Temple University, PhD: January 2011.

Dissertation: Longing to Belong: Identity & Organization Theory. Three linked essays that expand application of transaction cost logic by expanding the motivational base of cooperation to include identity self-interest as well as instrumental self-interest. Paper 1 lays out the theory and introduces democracy as a new organizational form; paper two presents an empirical test of the motivational continuum; and paper three uses a case study to elaborate the process dynamics of organizational evolution.

Recipient of the 2010 Harry A. Cochran Award for Student Research.

Temple University, MBA: 1998

Executive MBA projects included: Financial Projections for New Society Publishers; Statistical Comparison of Midwife and Doctor Outcomes at Pennsylvania Hospital; Analysis of Breakeven for Pennsylvania Midwifery Associates; Competitive Analysis of the Uniform Services Industry for ARAMARK; Licensing Plan for Cryptag RFID Device for BTDG; Analysis of Production Flows for FMC; Information Technology Plan for Temple SBDC; Stakeholder Analysis for the Family Business Alliance; Expansion Plan for La Fortaleza Physical Therapy Clinics.

Arnold Fellowship: 1983-1984

The prototype for the national Watson Fellowship, the Arnold Fellowship supports one year of independent travel and study abroad. My focus was on contemporary examples of successful nonviolent action for progressive social change. I spent four months in India visiting rural, Gandhian development organizations, and nine months in England working for the 50-year-old pacifist magazine Peace News.

Brown University, A.B. in Religious Studies: 1983

Concentrated on the relationship between faith and reason in various belief systems, with a particular interest in nonviolence. Courses included graduate level work in religious studies and cell biology.
