

Non-Tenure Track Assistant/Associate Professor of Healthcare Management & Administration

The Fox School of Business at Temple University invites applications for a non-tenure-track assistant or associate professor of practice with areas of expertise in healthcare management/administration. This position will be in the Department of Risk, Actuarial Science, and Legal Studies. Professors of practice are expected to demonstrate excellence in teaching through classroom instruction and related pedagogical activities, as well as continued engagement in their professional fields. The start date for the position is July 1, 2022.

We seek candidates capable of contributing to the department's teaching needs at various levels and who engage in continuous improvement in teaching and pedagogy. Our healthcare course offerings include courses at both the graduate and undergraduate levels including health systems organization and development, healthcare finance, healthcare organizations leadership/strategy, healthcare risk management, and patient safety and quality.

At minimum, a master's degree in Healthcare Management/Administration or comparable subject, as well as broad experience, including leadership roles, in the healthcare sector is required.

Prior teaching experience is strongly preferred.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Priority will be given to candidates who apply before March 1st. Include (1) a cover letter addressed to Professor Jeffrey Boles (Healthcare Recruiting Committee Chair) indicating interest and relevant professional and academic background, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) a statement of teaching interests and philosophy, (4) evidence of effective teaching (if available), and (5) names and contact information for at least three references.

Submit materials electronically to jeffrey.boles@temple.edu as a zipped file with a file name that starts with the applicant's last name. Please also include your last name, first name_2022 NTT HMA Application in the subject line.

Temple University, located in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, has evolved into an international powerhouse in higher education and a top-tier research institution with approximately 37,000 undergraduate, graduate, and professional students. As the largest university in one of the nation's most iconic cities, Temple educates diverse future leaders from Philadelphia, the country, and the world who share a common drive to learn and make a real impact. For additional information about Temple University, please visit www.temple.edu.

The Fox School of Business is accredited by AACSB International. With more than 7,200 students and more than 190 full-time faculty members, it is one of the largest and most comprehensive business schools in the nation, offering Bachelors, MBA, Specialized Masters, Executive MBA, Executive DBA, and Ph.D. degrees with programs on campuses in the Philadelphia region and worldwide. For additional information about the Fox School of Business, please visit <https://www.fox.temple.edu/>.

Temple University is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer committed to student, faculty and staff diversity, equity, and inclusion. Women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. Additional information is available from the university, college, and department websites at <http://www.fox.temple.edu>.

Temple University's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report contains statistics, policies, and procedures related to campus safety and can be found at: <https://safety.temple.edu/reports-logs/annual-security-report> . You may request a copy of the report by calling Temple University's Campus Safety Services at 215-204-7900.