

I am a PhD student at the Department of Statistics, Fox School of Business since Fall 2014. I completed my Bachelor of Science degree with Honours in Statistics in 2012 from Presidency College, Kolkata, under the University of Calcutta, India. I obtained my Master of Science degree in Statistics from the same university in 2014. My primary research interests include topics on statistical computation and time series analysis.