

The Fox School of Business presents James R. Fitzgerald, Supervisory Special Agent of the FBI BAU (ret.), Co-Director of the Institute for Forensic Linguistics, Threat Assessment, and Author of “A Journey to the Center of the Mind”

April 18, 2018 - 3:00 pm * MBA Commons, 7th Floor

Jim “Fitz” Fitzgerald remains an active criminal profiler and forensic linguist with his company, James R. Fitzgerald Associates, even after retiring in 2007 with 20 years in the FBI as a Supervisory Special Agent, along with 11 years before that as a police officer/detective/sergeant on the Bensalem Twp. (PA) Police Dept. During his law enforcement career, he successfully investigated numerous homicides, sexual assaults, and other violent crimes, as well as matters of international notoriety to include the Unabom, Jon Benet Ramsey, Anthrax, and DC Sniper cases as a profiler and/or a forensic linguist. James R. Fitzgerald is a graduate of Penn State University with a B.S. in Law Enforcement and Corrections. He holds an M.S. from Villanova University in Human Organizational Science, and an M.S. from Georgetown University in Linguistics.

#Fox100 Centennial Event * Temple University

FOX | LEGAL STUDIES